Following a recent successful conference on a national community reconciliation strategy for Iraq with a focus on recently liberated areas from ISIL (a meeting which enjoyed significant support from the highest levels of political office in Baghdad), the UNDP is now seeking to recruit an international expert to conduct a 120 days mission including at least 4 visits to Baghdad over the next 9 months to meet national and international partners who are engaged in national reconciliation work and provide UNDP with assistance and guidance in implementing the recommendations and outcomes of the said conference. These recommendations will guide the Country Office interventions and coordinate Iraqi government, non-government and religious effort towards community reconciliation and social cohesion in support of national reconciliation processes in Iraq.
